Water Safety Activity Pages

(INSPIRED BY OUR FULL ALL ABILITIES ACTIVITY BOOK)

Dear Parents, Aquatic Professionals and Water Safety Ambassadors,

Summer may be over, but water safety isn't.

This Fall Edition of our 'All Abilities Adaptive Water Safety Activity Book' is a fun, light activity designed to keep important water safety conversations going as the leaves change and fall begins. Inside, you'll find fall and Halloween-themed pages created to introduce water safety concepts in a way that feels supportive, visual, and accessible for children of all abilities.

We created our full, All Abilities Adaptive Water Safety Activity Book because every child deserves access to water safety education that feels supportive, visual, and empowering. Learning around water looks different for every swimmer, and water safety matters in every season. You're welcome to print these pages, revisit them often, or use them as a starting point for deeper water safety discussions.

Thank you for helping keep water safety part of the conversation all year long.

Best fishes,
The Swim Angelfish Team

PAJAMA DAY

Having a supervised pajama day helps neurodivergent swimmers become familiar with the feeling of wet clothing. The extra weight assists you while teaching your swimmer body control in buoyancy, which can also help decrease anxiety in the water.
